

Media advisory: Corruption Perceptions Index to be launched 27 January 2016

Transparency International, the leading civil society organisation tackling corruption worldwide, will release its 21st annual Corruption Perceptions Index on Wednesday, 27 January 2016 at 5am Berlin time (4am GMT).

This year's index ranks 168 countries/territories by their perceived levels of public sector corruption. The index draws on 12 surveys covering expert assessments and views of business people.

The Corruption Perceptions Index is the leading global indicator of public sector corruption, offering a yearly snapshot of the relative degree of corruption by ranking countries from all over the globe.

For more information click here:

English: www.transparency.org/cpi.

Vietnamese:

www.towardstransparency.org/vi/chi-so-cam-nhan-tham-nhung

Corruption Perceptions Index 2015

27 January 2016

available online as of 5.00 GMT

at www.transparency.org